TOWN FACTORIES WILL OPEN SOON

New Year Brings Good Prospects For Resumption of Business.

SEE BETTER TIMES AHEAD

January Sales Will Follow Inventory. Merchants Believe Buyers' Strike is Completely Broken.

That the business depression and the shutdown of several of the town's main industries in the closing months of 1920 will be followed by a re-awakening of business and manufacturing here is the belief of those who have kept in close touch with the local situation. Reports from the several concerns here that employ large numbers of men and women indicate that January will see several of the mills, closed for the past month, running at full capacity.

Monday morning the furniture factories here that have been closed for more than two weeks and which before that time were operating on a short-week schedule will open at full capacity, it has been announced. The resumption of manufacturing in this industry will mean the employment of several hundred men whose incomes have been heavily cut since the hours were reduced and the mills closed. Although nothing definite has been stated by the officials of the companies concerning a reduction in wages, many of the employees regard the appeal for co-operation issued in a letter to the men as an indication that a cut in wages is being considered.

Factory to Open

While the exact date for the opening of the Seidenberg branch factory of the American Cigar Company has not been officially announced, the indications are the plant will be ready to resume operations at full capacity within the next ten days. It is probable the employees will be taken on at a readjusted wage scale.

Optimism also prevails concerning the resumption of work at the throwing plant of the Eagle Silk Mills here early in the year, although official information from Shamokin has been received here. The fact that the large factories at Shamokin and smaller silk mills elsewhere are to open next week, however, gives cause for the belief that a full time schedule will be started here shortly.

See Better Business

While the business world does not face the new year with the same good prospects as it did when 1920 began, the majority of merchants express confidence that the early months of 1921 will reverse the conditions that developed in the fall last year and forced in many cases sweeping reductions in many of the staple commodities.

It is the general opinion, however,

NOISY WELCOME TO THE NEW YEAR

Whistles And Bells Proclaim Advent of 1921 And Retirement of 1920.

DANCE, THE MAIN FEATURE

Wednesday Club Hosts of Throng at Glatfelter Hall. Big Array of Clev. Costumes.

Screaming whistles, pealing bells and revolver shots joined in the boisterous greeting given to 1921 as the year was launched at midnight. The racket started promptly at twelve and lasted for about fifteen minutes.

Celebration of the closing of the old year started early in the evening with private gatherings, watch parties and dancing as the main events. There was a number of celebrators armed with revolvers on the streets at the stroke of twelve, but the noise making was short lived. With the close of the Charity Masquerade Dance in Glatfelter Hall shortly before 1 o'clock, quiet prevailed throughout the town, as Father Time retired leading 1920.

Among the business men there seemed to be little sorrow as 1920 passed, for the closing months brought with them marked degrees of depression and unsettled financial conditions. The average wage earner looked forward to 1921 with hopes for better times and a continuation of the downward trend in the high cost of living.

Dance Leading Event

First among the entertainments of New Year's Eve was the dance in Glatfelter Hall under the auspices of the Wednesday Club for the benefit of the Annie M. Warner Hospital. One hundred and ten dancers disguised as anyone from the Queen of Sheba to Mrs. Santa Claus made up the motley array that thronged the floor and trotted to the strains of jazz manufactured by the Melody Five.

More than fifty dollars was cleared by the club and will be added to the hospital fund.

Guests came from all sections of northern and eastern Adams county and the costumes generally were the best since the New Year's party has become an annual event.

Hilarious Celebration

Prominent business men and dignified matrons cast aside responsibilities and joined hilariously with the younger generation in the revelry preceding the departure of the old year.

There were perfect disguises and clever impersonations by the score. No prizes were given for the best dressed masqueraders, but if this had been the case, it was generally agreed Mrs. Paul Hoffman as the balloon girl and Phillip Bickle as Old Mother Hubbard were leaders in their respective classes.

NEW BUSINESS PLAN

Chamber of Commerce Will Hear of Neosho System.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce Friday night decided to hold an open meeting Tuesday, January 11, at which time G. R. Lowe will explain the Neosho plan of doing business. Mr. Lowe is making a tour of the towns in this section telling of an idea he originated which has proved a boon to business men. In his letter to the Chamber he says, "The Golden Rule Takes the place of mud slinging in the Neosho plan."

Mr. Lowe brings with him an idea originated ten years ago when he was a merchant in a small town in the Ozark region of Missouri. The plan is proclaimed as one that will "bring new business and hold it, stop the drain of worthless advertising and drive false auctioneers and other frauds from the community."

It is planned to hold the meeting in the room on Chambersburg street formerly occupied by John W. Brehm. Next Friday night there will be a meeting of all members of the Chamber of Commerce.

CARDINAL BETTER AFTER RELAPSE

Recovers From Sinking Spell. Physician Has Hope of His Recovery.

(By Associated Press) Baltimore, Jan. 1.—Cardinal Gibbons rallied from a relapse yesterday after a good night's rest and was much better this morning, according to news received here shortly before 10 o'clock from Union Mills, Maryland, where the Cardinal is at home of friends. The message concerning the Cardinal was sent by his secretary who said "his eminence is feeling fine and is talking about coming home."

This reassuring news was confirmed an hour later by the Shriver family, the Cardinal's host, who added the doctor had just left after expressing himself as "much pleased with the improvement in the Cardinal's condition." All the Catholic religious communities embracing the various orders prayed throughout a greater part of the night for the Cardinal's speedy recovery. Special prayers were also offered at all masses by direction of Bishop Corrigan, vicar general of the diocese.

Cardinal Gibbons suffered a severe relapse at the home of Robert F. Shriver, Union Mills, just across the Maryland line near Littlestown, Friday and his condition is regarded very unsatisfactory. His physicians are greatly perturbed by his extreme weakness. The last sacraments of the church have been administered.

The turn in the Cardinal's condition prompted Right Rev. Owen B. Corrigan, Vicar General of Baltimore, who is associated with St. Gregory's Church, to issue Friday night an official notice to the Catholic clergymen of the archdiocese, and through them to their congregations, directing prayers for the recovery of the prelate, or in lieu of this for a happy death.

Physicians Apprehensive

Physicians in attendance on the Cardinal Thursday had gravely intimated that a crisis was imminent, but they had hoped the patient would rally Friday.

Since last Sunday, when the condition of the Cardinal took a favorable turn, it had been hoped he would steadily gain strength and eventually be in condition to travel to Baltimore. Obviously the doctors had not anticipated the relapse; but this turn, they explained, was due to the infirmity of the patient.

NO TRACE OF BANDIT

Clarence Snyder Offers Reward of Fifty Dollars.

No trace of the masked man in the army hat and coat who held up seven men in the store of Clarence Snyder at Granite Thursday night has been found.

Snyder, who lost forty of the fifty dollars taken by the bandit during his five minute stay in the store, has offered a reward of fifty dollars for the capture of the bandit.

The capture of the masked man who was about five feet, ten inches tall and weighed about 155 pounds, will be a difficult feat as he had eleven hours of darkness in which to escape and by this time could be many miles from Adams county.

HARDING TO PLAY TENNIS

Courts At White House Being Restored For Use.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Jan. 1.—Changes about the White House grounds to meet the wishes of President-elect Harding already have been started, the tennis courts in the rear of the executive mansion coming in for first attention.

The work of restoring the court, which has been more or less in disuse for some time, was started in compliance with an informal request to President Wilson from Senator Harding, who besides being a golf fan is also known to be devoted to tennis.

The court became famous in President Roosevelt's administration, when the little group of men who delighted to play there daily with the president were known as the "tennis cabinet."

OPTIMISTIC OF FRUIT FUTURE

Sheldon W. Funk, of Boyertown, Spoke at Cashtown Sessions Friday.

GOOD ATTENDANCE THERE

Over One Hundred Farmers Heard Addresses by Mr. Funk, J. R. Stear And A. D. Cromwell.

Optimism was the keynote of an address of great interest to fruit growers delivered by Sheldon W. Funk, of Boyertown, at the second meeting of the Adams County Farmers' Institute held in the P. O. S. of A. Hall at Cashtown Friday afternoon and evening.

"This last year was one of the most serious which I ever passed," said Mr. Funk in speaking of the 1920 season which was considered a failure by many Adams county growers.

In view of the bright vision for the future in the apple game Mr. Funk said that he intended to plant 350 to 400 more acres with fruit trees on his farms near Boyertown.

"Marketing conditions, so important to all apple growers, do not bother me," said the speaker, "as I have Allentown, South Bethlehem, Pottsville and Reading at my disposal and can ship in bulk whenever necessary."

Mr. Funk said that he practiced severe pruning, planted three peach trees to one apple tree, and left his orchard fillers in the ground for eleven years.

"Commercial Fertilizers and the Value of Home Fixing" was the subject of the evening address delivered by Mr. Funk before an attentive audience of seventy five farmers. The afternoon and evening sessions at Cashtown were on the whole a marked success as a total of over one hundred men turned out for the Institute sessions.

William Bittinger, W. W. Boyer, Harry Deardorff, Clarence Bream, G. M. Bucher and M. E. Freed composed the committee in charge of the two Cashtown sessions.

J. R. Stear, of the Bureau of Plant Industry at Harrisburg, spoke on "Dusting and Spraying" while A. D. Cromwell, of West Chester, talked upon "Some New Things in Feeds and Feeding" in the afternoon and "Improving Rural Schools" at night.

A. I. Weidner, of Arendtsville, president of the Adams County Farmers' Institute, presided at the sessions.

Comic displays, elaborate floats, fancy costumes and string bands sought in their various divisions to outdo the others.

Thousands of spectators, many of whom stayed up all night after the new year's celebration in order to witness the early start of the procession, thronged the line of march. Railroads ran special trains from points within a 200-mile radius of the city, bringing additional throngs which taxed the capacity of the hotels.

PENNSY HOPES TO END ALL STRIKES

Announces Conclusion of Mutual Working Agreement With Service Employees.

HAS BECOME EFFECTIVE

Management Confident Understanding Between Employes and Officials Unnecessary.

Philadelphia, Jan. 1.—The Pennsylvania Railroad announced last night that it has concluded a mutual working agreement with the representatives of its engine and train service employees regarding settlement of future labor differences, which "if lived up to in spirit by both sides, should in the belief of the management," eliminate any question of strike, on the Pennsylvania system as far as train operation is concerned.

The agreement, the announcement stated, is the outcome of the series of meetings between representatives of the management and of the engine and train service employees, which began in this city December 21.

In Effect Now

The plan will go into effect today. The "joint reviewing committee of the Pennsylvania Railroad system" has been established as a medium to carry out a peaceful settlement. Through this committee the employees involved will, for the first time in the history of the railroad, have equal voice and vote with the management. The committee will constitute a court of review covering grievances, rules and working conditions, including discipline.

The committee will be composed of two representatives of the management from each of the four regions of the system, and on behalf of the employees, of the general chairman of the men in the engine and train service. All votes will be of equal power, and a vote of not less than two-thirds will be necessary to reach a decision upon any question presented.

Employees Who Have Joined

The employees, who, through their accredited representatives, have joined the railroad management in the plan, according to the announcement, include the enginemen, conductors, firemen, hostlers, trainmen and switch tenders. They constitute the most numerous groups of employees directly engaged in the movement of freight and passenger traffic.

Under the terms of one provision, whenever an agreement is reached in any particular case between the management and men, whether at a superintendent's, general superintendent's or general managers' meeting, the settlement agreed upon will be placed in effect at once; but an immediate report will be made to the joint reviewing committee, which will, as soon as possible, either ratify or modify the ruling. The principles so established will then become binding upon the management and men in all regions, and will govern existing and future cases of a similar nature.

"The management feels justified," says the announcement, "in expressing the conclusion that the understanding reached should not only make future strikes wholly unnecessary, but should obviate even the necessity for ever taking a strike vote if both sides live up to the friendly spirit in which the understanding has been established."

STUDENTS BATTLE STORM IN CLOUDS

Without Food Three Days When They Attempt to Climb Mountain.

Fabyan, N. H., Jan. 1.—Three Harvard students who had been missing since they started to climb Mount Washington on Wednesday morning returned to the base station of Mount Washington railway last night. They were suffering from exposure and lack of food, but it was believed that none of them was in a serious condition.

One of the students, Emanuel S. Cook, of Duluth, Minn., was so exhausted that he was carried for a part of the way by the others—Max Goldberg, of Chicago, and Ben Scheinman, of Detroit. The caretaker of the station gave them food and shelter for the night, as it was impossible for them, in the darkness and snow, to reach the nearest hotel or habitation, several miles distant.

First Meal in Three Days

When the young men had thoroughly warmed themselves and had eaten their first meal since Wednesday, they gave the caretaker a brief account of their experiences. They said that they had met with little difficulty in working their way up the mountain over the ties and trestle of the Cog Railway. When they reached the top, however, a blizzard suddenly swept over the mountain. They sought shelter in the Summit House, where they spent the night. A few cakes of chocolate constituted their only food.

Yesterday, although the weather was better, they found the upper stretch of the railway so covered with snow that they did not dare to venture along it. They decided to wait over another night in the hope either that conditions would improve or a searching party would reach them.

GENERAL IS HELD FOR CONTEMPT

Adjutant Harris Given Jail Sentence For Not Presenting Records.

SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

Affidavits Wanted in Divorce Cause of Dispute. Harris Says He is Following The Law.

Washington, Jan. 1.—A contempt sentence of 10 days in jail was imposed Friday on Major General Peter C. Harris, adjutant general of the Army, by Justice Siddons of the District Supreme Court for his refusal to produce certain records in connection with the selective service act, which were sought in Ohio divorce proceedings.

An appeal from the ruling of the court that such records should be produced was immediately noted by counsel for General Harris, and the contempt sentence automatically was suspended pending disposition of the appeal. General Harris said he had his "field equipment" ready and was prepared to serve out the sentence, if necessary, but added that he did not expect to have to go to jail.

To Meet Test Case

Justice Siddons in entering the order adjudging the General in contempt directed that, should he decide to produce the records sought before the expiration of the 10 days, he was to be released. The War Department, however, is to make a test of the status of draft records.

The record which Justice Siddons ordered the General to produce was an affidavit made by Mrs. Mary H. Walsh, in behalf of her husband, Henry H. Walsh, before Walsh's local board. Walsh is now suing his wife for divorce and his counsel obtained an order for the production of the affidavit in connection with these proceedings.

General Harris' Contention

General Harris contended that President Wilson, in the order promulgating the selective service act, promised that certain information in connection with the questionnaires would never be made public and that among the information was the physical condition of the men examined, matters relating to dependents and additional matter or affidavits that might be filed.

In view of this the General contended that he was stopped from making the information public, not only by the law itself, but also by the President's order, which constituted a "moral promise" to the wives and other relatives of men called to service that information furnished by them would be kept from the public.

CUT IN ICE CREAM

Wholesale Price Drops Twenty Cents in Harrisburg.

The Hershey Creamery Company and Russ Brothers, two large manufacturers of ice cream, formally announced Friday a reduction of 20 cents a gallon in the wholesale price of ice cream.

This, it is believed, is the forerunner of general reductions in price throughout the Central Pennsylvania field.

Manufacturers explained that this price cut of five cents a quart to the retailer ought to bring the price per quart down ten cents to the consumer, in view of the fact that the price was advanced ten cents a quart to the consumer at the time the last raise of five cents a quart was made by the manufacturer to the wholesaler.

The wholesale price has been $1.50 a gallon. Beginning January 1, the price will be $1.30 a gallon.

INDICT COAL MEN AS PROFITEERS

Two State Companies Charged With Selling Above Reasonable Price.

New York, Jan. 1.—The federal grand jury Friday returned indictments charging the Haddock Mining company of Lucerne, Pa., and the Von Storch Collieries Company of Scranton, Pa., and Henry Meeker, of Meeker and Co., wholesale dealers, exclusive sales agent in this city of both companies, with profiteering in the sale of domestic sizes of anthracite coal, in violation of the Lever Act. Meeker was named in both indictments.

Unfair Prices Aligned

The indictments, returned on evidence furnished by Armin W. Riley, head of the government "flying squadron" of the profiteer hunters, charged the Haddock Company with selling at "unfair and unreasonable" prices 12,500 tons of coal during September and October. The indictment alleges that the company sold coal f. o. b. at mines at from $13 to $15 a ton when a "reasonable price" would have been about $8.35 a ton.

The Von Storch Company is alleged to have sold 12,500 tons of coal during the same period at prices ranging from $13 to $15 a ton when a "proper and reasonable charge" would have been from $8.35 to $8.65 a ton.

Meeker Shared Profits

Prosecutor Riley said that the price charged by the two colliery companies and Meeker for coal at the mines was "greatly in excess" of that obtained by retail dealers in this city for coal deliveries here.

Buyers' Strike Over

The buyers' strike, which was one of the prime factors in causing the break in war prices, seems to have been broken, and all that is needed, it is pointed out, is employment for the men and women seeking it. Experts in the industrial field are emphasizing the fact that a further curtailment of buying will mean further reduced production, and incidentally less work and less money in circulation.

CLEAR THE TRACK!

HELD IN ARMENIA BY NATIONALISTS

Dr. J. L. Park, Former Student
Isolated in Urfa By The Turks.

CABLE BRINGS FIRST NEWS

Finished Course Here in 1916 And Went to Harvard Medical School.
Works Among 1100 Orphans.

Word has just been received here through the Near East Relief that Dr. James L. Park, of Indiana, who graduated from Gettysburg College in the class of 1916, is isolated in the city of Urfa, Cilicia. Dr. Park, who was a member of the Varsity football squad in his college days, has been stranded in the very heart of the section in which the Turks have staged many of their crimes against the Armenians. He is waiting for an opportunity to journey back to civilization.

Dr. Park is among a group of six men and one woman relief workers of whom the cable this week brought the first news since the Turkish activities of the Turkish Nationalists isolated Urfa on August 19.

Two years ago Dr. Park, who is a graduate of the Harvard Medical School, joined the Near East Relief. His attempts to join the Medical Reserve Corps during the war failed and he offered his services at the conclusion of the war to help repair the damages of the conflict he was not permitted to participate in.

Until several weeks ago Dr. Park was stationed in Mardin, more than one hundred miles east of Urfa and about half way between Aleppo, Syria, and Mosul, Mesopotamia. He was on his way to Beirut, enroute home, by automobile when further progress was stopped at Urfa.

Turks in Control

The district for miles about the city is now controlled by the Nationalists, who have driven out the French forces of occupation. The French garrison of about five hundred men that were holding the city last spring were massacred when they attempted to withdraw before a superior force of Turks. A number of Armenians lost their lives at the same time, though the majority of the Christian population escaped through the intercession of relief workers.

During his forced sojourn in Urfa Dr. Park has been engaged in work among the 1100 orphans sheltered in the two Near East Relief asylums in the city. In addition to maintaining orphanages the relief organization also operates two medical clinics, a home for Christian girls rescued from Turkish harems, and industrial shops and food relief stations for the benefit of the adult Christian population of the city who are prevented from earning a living by the persecution of the Turks.

Others Reported Safe.

The other workers in the city reported to be safe by the cables are: Miss Margaret Waller, Bloomsburg; Dr. Joseph S. Stewart, Jr., Athens, Georgia; Roy L. Myer, Lancaster; Chris Augsberger, Elida, Ohio; and C. H. F. Crathers, a Y. M. C. A. worker, attached to the relief organization, of 100 Riverway street, Boston.

Bank assets valued at $6,000,000 and the safe deposit boxes with assets estimated at $20,000,000 were transferred. State Police stationed here were on guard automobile when further progress was during the moving.

HOLD LOVE FEAST AS OLD YEAR DIES

Watch Meeting in Methodist Church. Pray For The New Year.

The dawn of the new year was greeted by members of the local Methodist congregation at a watch night service starting in their church here at 10 o'clock and continuing until a few minutes after midnight.

The first thirty minutes was spent in song after which Rev. Harry Daniels, pastor, delivered his sermon on "The Opener and The Shutter." The main thought in the sermon was that the ancient Romans had a two faced God, one face looking backward over the year that had passed and the other toward the future. This God was placed in the temple of Janus from which the name "January" is derived. The title of the sermon was in turn derived from the name, "The Temple of the Opener and Shutter," applied by the ancient Romans to the temple of Janus.

"So are we here tonight looking backward and forward," said Rev. Mr. Daniels in his sermon based on the ninth verse of the ninetieth psalm, "We spend our years as a tale that is told."

Following the sermon the congregation conducted an old fashioned Methodist Love Feast until five minutes before midnight when they knelt and remained in that position until the pastor's watch announced the birth of the New Year.

MANY CARS LACK LICENSE TAGS

Delay in Shipments of Plates
And Making Application
Cause of Trouble.

Despite the fact that the automobile division of the State Highway Department increased its force and began issuing the plates earlier than ever before there are many cars in Adams and other counties that cannot be operated within the law today. While the fault in many cases lies with the automobile owner, some who applied for tags more than two weeks ago have not received them.

The State Highway Department has repeated the announcement that there will be no extension of time for the 1920 licenses.

Three months ago the department issued a warning to all automobile owners that there would be no days of grace this year, and that one minute after midnight of December 31 anyone carrying a 1920 tag would be liable to a fine or imprisonment or both, at the discretion of the court.

Thus far 185,000 tags have been shipped, though 225,000 application cards have been filed. Ben E. Enyon, chief of the division, said that the plates are going out at the rate of 18,000 a day, which means that the close of next week should see the greater part of winter drivers equipped.

The automobile division has instituted a number of improved business methods and modern devices which has expedited the handling of licenses and the shipment of plates.

Pennsylvania's revenue from licenses for automobiles, trucks, motorcycles and other types of motor vehicles for 1920 went over $8,000,000, breaking all records and setting a pace for 1921. The last 1920 license was issued this week.

The 1920 licenses issued included 531,893 pneumatic tired machines and 53,000 trucks, which exceed all former records.

The revenue for 1920 was $8,000,159.85. Considerably over $1,000,000 for 1921 licenses is in hand. The income from such licenses must be applied to highway maintenance under the law.

SURPLUS OF COAL

DuBois, Pa., Jan. 1—Soft coal operators throughout this section are staggered by the completed turnover of the market within the past few weeks. From a situation that almost cleaned out all surplus of coal and worked the mines to their capacity, there has suddenly come a slackened demand for the product so far reaching that the owners have not been able to analyze the condition now existing.

Bituminous coal is selling on the spot market at the lowest figure in three years, with little or no quantity demand. Sales were reported on the local market this week as low as $2.25 a ton and one sale at $2.00.

With winter at its height operators are unable to give satisfactory explanation for the lack of demand. The market has been on the decline for several months and although it was believed that the bottom had been reached at $3.50 the price has been steadily dropping and a few operators believe the end is not yet.

SHARKEY BEAT HIMSELF

Boxing history is replete with chapters of human stupidity. Sullivan, Corbett, Jeffries Johnson—top notchers all—had a hand in the writing. Jack Sharkey wrote another piece into this human document on Wednesday night, when he was knocked out by Roy Moore. Rather let it be said that Sharkey knocked himself out. Moore could not hurt him, but Sharkey collapsed from his own exertions. He was not fit for a fight with even a second rater, and gave evidences of not having done any serious training for the bout. When Sharkey, fresh from having gone the pace after his first bout with Joe Lynch, was knocked out in their second meeting, he pleaded for a chance to reform and rehabilitate himself. He got that chance. Then he was stopped by a man of Moore's caliber.

In passing, let a query be answered which has been repeated often since the bout. Yes; Sharkey was knocked out. That the referee stopped the bout makes no difference. And there is no such thing as a technical knockout. If, by action of the referee, an injury or a punch which puts him down for the count of ten, a boxer is unable to continue, he is knocked out.

Transportation Key To Building Problem

A NEW YORK OFFICE BUILDING UNDER CONSTRUCTION. THE UNITED STATES IS MORE THAN A YEAR BEHIND IN ITS BUILDING PROGRAMME.

VIEW OF A BIG BRICK YARD—THERE IS NO LIMIT TO THE SUPPLY OF MATERIAL FOR BRICKLAYING.

LOADING ROCK FOR CEMENT WORKS—THE SUPPLY OF CEMENT FOR CONCRETE CONSTRUCTION IS UNLIMITED.

By FRANCIS H. Sisson,
Vice-President of Guaranty Trust Co.
of New York.

ONE of the most serious of after-war problems for all of the former belligerent nations is that of providing homes for their people and buildings for their offices, stores and factories. Practically all building operations, excepting those for war purposes, were suspended during hostilities.

The United States, like every other former belligerent, is far behind in its building operations. Although the supply of basic raw materials in this country is sufficient to support the most ambitious building program here, the high cost of both labor and materials and the inadequacy of transportation facilities prevent the use of a large part of these materials. This condition is the most serious factor in retarding the work of meeting the acute demand for homes and industrial structures throughout the country.

In the absence of complete statistics of building for the entire country the figures reported by the United States Geological Survey for about 150 cities in all sections of the country may be regarded as fairly representative data. Its statistics do not include construction for military purposes, for which no permit was required. Such construction can only in part serve non-military purposes. Since the statistics do not show the number of new houses, but only the value of the permits, it is proper to make allowance for changes in prices in estimating the accumulated shortage of housing, as is evidenced by the permits.

Estimates for the whole country, based on the survey of these cities, show that the accumulated shortage in building during the last three years is about one and one-third the normal building for one year in the pre-war period. Building fell off 40 per cent during 1917, 69 per cent in 1918 and 25 per cent in 1919. Other estimates of the housing shortage, in terms of the number of houses, have been made. The United States Forest Service estimates that the country lacks 450,000 houses. Other estimates range as high as 800,000 and even 1,000,000 houses. The wide variation in size and cost of houses makes it difficult to define any standard house as a unit of measurement. The value of the permits affords a more satisfactory measurement of the building shortage.

As already indicated, the raw materials for building—timber, clay, cement, iron, etc.—are available in abundance. Unlike the yield of agricultural products, the supply of these materials may promptly be enlarged whenever demand calls for it. It remains to consider whether the labor and plant capacity are sufficient to make these materials immediately available.

In the lumber industry it is estimated that there is an excess plant capacity of 50 per cent, with a like excess capacity in the brick, stone and cement industries, while the steel mills could easily expand their output of structural steel through a curtailment of other products. Although there is not an unlimited amount of labor for building operations, the unskilled workers, and even the number of skilled workers, could be greatly increased if the demand for buildings should call for them.

The current demand for materials, as reflected in permits for new buildings, indicates, when allowance is made for increased costs, a lower than normal rate of production. The first four months of 1920 showed approximately normal activity, but there was a significant decline in May. Hesitation in the industry is general. The statistics from 105 cities show that the permits for the month of May ordinarily are about double those for January. Yet in all save the Pacific and New England districts there was a smaller volume of permits in May of this year than in January, and in the two districts where there was not a decline the increase was relatively small.

While the general tardiness of building operations is in large part due to hesitation to undertake new building at current costs and to the difficulties of financing such undertakings, it may be questioned whether such hesitation is chiefly responsible for the marked decline in May as compared with April of this year. It appears that the transportation situation is the primary source of the decline. There is no general expectation that by postponing new building for a few months marked savings may be realized through future declines in prices. Even should the long-desired definite recession in prices develop there is much ground for the belief that for some time to come building costs will show at best only slight decline, apart from temporary fluctuations. As for the influence of credit stringency upon building operations, other lines of business enterprises are also affected, most of which show no such marked decline in activity as does the building industry.

In some localities there is a general dearth of available building materials. In some localities one or another material may be found in sufficient quantities for the immediate needs of the building in hand, but other equally essential materials are lacking, and in consequence operations are as effectively suspended as if all supplies were lacking. Brick, for example, is available where there is no cement. On the other hand, certain lumber mills are idle because they are not able to move their product.

It seems that the urgency of the need for new building would warrant a system of freight priorities which would serve to increase activity in this essential industry. The problem of priorities is, of course, a very complex one. With so many essential businesses in need of every assistance, not one of them can be favored directly by freight preference or indirectly by embargoes without at the same time handicapping some other enterprise. But if any claim for special treatment is warranted under the present conditions apparently building materials are well toward the head of the list of commodities for which such claims may rightly be made.

HIKED TO WOLF HILL.

Eight boy scouts hiked to Wolf Hill Thursday afternoon and practiced cooking tests. After playing Scout games, the boys prepared dinner. Scoutmaster Albert Billemeier and Senior Patrol Leader John Clutz accompanied the Scouts.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs. Polly Harman, who departed this life one year ago, January 2, 1920.
Farewell, farewell my mother dear.
We have spent one sad and lonely year,
You left us with an aching heart,
The morning we did part.

Rest on dear mother; thy labors are o'er,
Thy willing hands will toil no more,
A faithful mother both true and kind,
A better mother we could not find.

Mother dear, how we miss you,
Miss you more than hearts can tell.
Every hour and day that passes
Brings us nearer with you to dwell.

I know mother is not dead,
But sleeping beneath the earth's cold road.
I turn my mind from weeping,
And put my trust in God.

In her silent place of resting,
With the rest of God's own dead,
Lies a mother and a loved one,
Sleeping in His narrow bed.

Farewell dear mother, sweet thy rest,
Weary with years and worn with pain,
Farewell till in thy happy home above,
We shall behold thy face again.

Farewell, farewell dear grandma,
Who's sleeping in her rest,
Beneath the earth, it is so sad
And lonely without you, Grandma.
By the children.

Cause for Depression.

The boy working on our shoes was solemnly silent.
"Smatter, Rastus?"
"Nuffin' much. But I was jus' thinkin'."
"What about?"
"Well, Fred Douglas is done gone, and Paul Laurence Dunbar's done gone, an' Bookah Washington's dail, an' I ain' feelin' none too good mahself!"

A Popular Method.

"How in the world can I ever break into the poetry market and get the critics to notice me?"
"Get a job driving a garbage wagon. Then some day when the reeking is especially good, go to a magazine office and hand in some of your best verse. You will at once become known as 'The Garbage Poet,' your verses will be twice as good as if you had written them on bond paper at a mahogany desk, and your success and notoriety will be assured."

DIFFERENTIATED

Recently by riding all along an extensive inter-Reuben railway system twice, we found out the difference between a "limited" and a "local." The limited merely makes what stops there are, and the local makes all of them.

Not the Stealable Kind.

"Now," said the zealous salesman, "can you show me just one reason why you shouldn't buy one of the Gale locks to keep your car from being stolen?"

"Yep," said the quiet man. "Come take one look at me car."

PROBABLY NOT.

Misery loves company, but the attraction isn't mutual.

Enlightenment.

"Is this speech-making tour of yours a campaign of education?" "I don't know how it strikes the audiences," replied Senator Sorghum, "but I must admit that I am learning a few things."

"SMILE"

NOW is the time when America needs courage. It is no time for pessimism. Every one of us should approach the problems which confront us with a spirit of optimism, comforted in the knowledge that American ideas and ideals are basically sound and that nothing can uproot them—a thought well substantiated by our war experiences. We should not permit any temporary lull in business to weaken our faith in continued prosperity. No machine can travel in "high gear" continuously, and this applies to the American Business Machine. (Let us regard any temporary period of readjustment as time well spent in "tuning up", taking the knocks out of the engine, lubricating the gears, making a thorough job of it, so that we may continue to travel in safety and comfort a long, long way. Let us all "get together" and meet the problems of readjustment in the same spirit of optimism and determination as we met the war. For the man worth while, is the man with a smile, when everything goes dead wrong.")
